

Finally I Understand Why . . .

. . . the chicken crossed the road.

It was to get away from me.

All the world flees
as I sit writing this poem.

I could stop and chase after you.

But I always try to keep my promises.

Steve Bloom
June 2006