

I Predict

that one day a new rage will sweep our nation, captivating its younger generation while frightening their parents.
And this will be called
"All Poetry Radio."

And on Saturdays when they count down the top 100 most-requested poems
of the previous week
there will always be oldies interspersed between (some even older than all-poetry radio itself. Imagine that!) and one will be yours—you know, the piece I like so well but nobody else has discovered, yet.

Steve Bloom
October 2007