

Invisible

The invisible people sit on either side of their invisible wall constructed, brick by invisible brick, over the years—well-cemented by invisible mortar.

And though there are invisible peep-holes thoughtfully left for them to look through,
these are rarely used
because everyone knows that if anybody tried
the people on the other side would still be invisible.

Steve Bloom
February 2002