

Note to the Artist

Blood
is thicker than water.

But paint
is thicker than blood.

You squeeze paint from your veins
and leave it there upon the canvas
for me to admire.

I prick my own blood vessel
and this poem appears in a similar manner.

Please be careful not to smear anything
before it has a chance to dry.

Steve Bloom
December 2005