

Personal

Poet, 55, just finished his discovery of another opera by Giuseppe Verdi—the one about Ernani—as he drove along today through New York City's streets, wishes to declare
there's too much
beautiful music here
for any human being to endure alone. And so, if someone listening now
might be inclined to share, please let him know.

Steve Bloom
May 2002