

Somewhere . . .

. . . you realize, right now, two people are exploring the relationship between bonding and bondage, as you sit alone, able only to dream about such things.

Yet I can tell you for sure that within six months this couple for whom you presently feel so much jealousy will have split apart with considerable animosity since all they have going for them is the sex, and when that grows old—well, how many times have we been down that road?

While you will sit there still,
all of your dreams
intact.

Steve Bloom
December 2007